FLOURING-MILL FIRE.

Experience of the Acme Mills Repeated by Ehrisman with a Smaller Loss.

A fire was discovered yesterday noon in the "texas" of the flouring-mill of Jacob Ehrisman, corner of Clifford avenue and Arcter street. The flames had gained such headway that a citizen pulled the box for a second alarm before Chief Webster arrived. When the Chief saw the extent and threatening nature of the fire he gave the box a third pull, calling out the entire department. The mill is fortunately well situated in regard to water supply. The department, sdvantage, and from the start steadily, but slowly, gained control of the flames. Great upper floors, and as much damage was done by this element as by fire. The fire was extinguished in less than two hours.

The origin of the flames is supposed to be hot journal, due to lack of Inbrication. There was no one at the time upon the floor where the flames started, and with so much inflammable dust and silk bolting cloth, the appartment was enveloped in flame before its presence was discovered. In location and in time the fire was very similar to that of the Arcade mills several weeks since.

The loss will reach at least $2,500, and may amount to $4,000. The damage was largely to the machinery, which must be popular prices of 25 cents. overhauled, thus causing a delay in business for six or eight weeks. The insurance amounts to $15,000, in the following companies represented in McGilliard & Dark's

New York, Bowery, Germania, Firemen's of Baltimore, Columbia of Oregon, Fire-men's of Dayton, People's of Pittsburg. St. Paul German Insurance Company of St. Paul, Indiana Insurance Company. The agents say the fire department deserves commendation for creditable work in bandling the fire and in furnishing tarpaulins for the protection of stock and machinery from water.

The mill has been in operation nearly nine years, and never before was so much damaged by fire. It has a capacity of 150 barrels a day. The finished stock on hand was three hundred barrels, which was awaiting shipment, but which was partially damaged by water.

any, floral auxiliaries, the family group is so large and so varied that it comprises in itself all that is necessary to make a full and satisfying display. The Society of Indiana Florists, though they may lay themselves open to the charge of doing something superfluous, do add something to this great annual feast of flowers, and their endeavors to refine fine gold are appreciated, judging by the numbers of admiring gazers who have attended this, the fifth annual exhibit.

Yesterday brought to Tomlinson Hall a number of florists from abroad to see what their confreres of Hoosierdom had to show of the flowery kingdom. There were sixteen florists from Cincinnati, eight from Dayton and five from Chicago. Among Among those from Chicago were John Thorpe, chief of the horticultural department of the world's fair, and Superintendent Pettigrew, of Lincoln Park. Both these gentlemen, as well as the other visitors, expressed themselves as highly pleased with the entire arrangement of the exhibit. Mr. Thorpe took pleasure in testifying that the show of seedlings was the finest he had

A number of new floral designs were put on exhibit. Among these was a large basket of carnations, for which F. Zehringer gave as a prize a large floral painting. A vestibule electric street-car, made of choice chrysanthemums, attracted great attention. The Citizens' Street-car Company contributed $25 toward this as a prize. The value of the floral work alone on this place is in every of $100.

The value of the floral work alone on this piece is in excess of $100.

The display of orchids, comprising over fifty varieties of these singular and valuable plants, is the cynosure of all eyes. This feature is much larger than that of the last or any previous year, and Siebrecht & Wadley, of New York, and the Mc-Fadden nursery, of Cincinnati, have sent the best of their choice col-

The carnation appears to be the coming Indiana flower. The display of Orchids: this clove-scented member of the pink family is highly creditable to the exhibitors. There are more carnations than ever before, and they are finer. Fred Dorner, of Lafayette, is now looked upon as the best carnation grower in the United States, and his success has stimulated other Indiana florists to high endeavor in this specialty. Already a proposition is before the Society of Indiana Florists to propose this as the national flower.

John Hartje, of this city, a young florist, has a small but choice exhibit of cut chrysanthemums, among which is the Langtry, the snow-white blooms of which measure ten inches in diameter from tip to tip. AFTER A GREAT CONVENTION

Effort to Bring the American Federarion of Labor to Indianapolis. T. M. Gruelle has been elected a delegate from the Federal Labor Union to the American Federation of Labor, which meets in Birmingham, Dec. 14. He is working to secure every delegate possible from this city, and then to make a strenuous effort before the convention, to make Indiananolis the place of the meeting in 1892. is well known that President Gompers, who was here during the cigar-makers' convention, and who has been here several times before, is partial to this city, and it is believed he will use his influence in its behalf.

The situation in the matter of delegate representation is somewhat peculiar. The American Federation is made up of delegates from the affiliated national trade organizations, and from local affiliated unfons, only where they have not a national organization. Delegates are also admitted from local delegate bodies, such as the Central Labor Union, but it happens that this body in this city is not affiliated with the federation. A movement to connect it was deferred until Febrnary at the last meeting. This state of things leaves only the Federal Labor Union and five or six small local unions entitled to delegates, although the city is one of the best organized cities in the country. Nowhere is labor better or more broadly organized. These eligible unions are recent in origin and slender in purse, and it is impracticable, it is said, for any one of them to pay the expenses of a delegate. Were the Central Labor Union entitled to delegates, the effort to secure the next convention, it is thought, would be certain of success. But it is expected a strong fight will be made in spite of the difficulties, in the hope that the central lo-cation, the railroad facilities, and the thorough organization will have an at-

We have not as yet settled upon a line of action, but we do not expect to be ignored or to lose whatever advantage we have in the per-sonal pledges given us by these men."

Local Labor Notes. The local divisions of the engineers' and firemen's brotherhoods decided yesterday to join in giving a ball on Christmas eve. Tomlinson Hall was at once secured, and it is expected that a very large crowd will be present.

The telephone girls are talking of organizing. They complain that a steady effort is being made to reduce their wages and exact more time from them. There are about twenty girls in the exchange, who alone would be powerless to improve their own conditions of labor.

The bicycle-workers met last night at the corner of Pennsylvania and Maryland streets to arrange for application for admission as a branch of the American Federation of Labor. There were about seventy-five men present, and it is said the union will start out with a membership of 150. Henry Heggason and D. F. Kennedy were the speakers.

ESCAPED FROM A MOB.

Negro Boy in Jail Who Came Near Being the Victim of a Lynching Party.

Walter Rial, the young negro who is under indictment in Butler county, Ohio, for criminal assault, spent the night in the jail en route to Michigan City. He was sentenced a few days since at Liberty for two years on a plea of guilty to house-breaking. The Ohio offi-cers recently attempted to secure Rial by a requisition for a warrant from Gov. Hovey, but it was refused because of the charge against him in Union county. Some Oxford people attempted to organize a mob to lynch Rial for the crime committed there, but he was taken to the Richmond ail, across the line, and then to the Liberty ail as soon as the excitement subsided.

Physical Culture for Women. Mrs. Saunderson, director of physical culture at the State University, read a paper before an audience of about forty ladies upon the subject of "Physical Cult-

The paper was well written and well read. This was followed by a practical demonstration by Miss Ida Manly, one of the most graceful and perfectly poised women who has tried to demonstrate physical culture before an Indianapolis audience. Miss Manly gave the dumb-beil exercise, the Swedish plan of progressional development, Dr. Charles Wesley Emerson's method and the exercises for strength-ening centers and freeing surfaces, the latter of which is much like the Delsarte. Miss Manly will establish a class in physical culture here.

Many Rigs Stolen.

A number of horses and buggies were stolen yesterday, but it was thought by the officers that it was the work of rowdies who wanted a free drive, rather than professional thieves. J. H. Dilks, No. 32 East Market street. lost his rig from the rear of the market house. Charles Baden, an Evening Tribune reporter, reported that his horse and buggy had been taken from a hitching-post on Kentucky avenue. It was found late in the evening. chased-Hose Company with a "Pull." The Board of Public Safety will hold a meeting Monday to decide on what plan to follow in purchasing new hose and engines. Since the Council passed the ordinance appropriating $33,500 for fire department equipment, including two new engines and seven thousand feet of hose, the members of the board have been besieged daily by the agents of hose companies who are anxious to supply the city with that needful material. So far agents of the Eureka Hose Company (the one that has always supplied the city), the New York Belt and Packing Company and the Callahan company have arrived and have been presenting their claims for the recognition of their material. The agent of the Baker fabric hose has not yetappeared, but he is looked for, as he is always on hand when new hose is to be purchased. Commissioner Catterson was asked yesterday by a Journal reporter how the material would be purchased.

"The members of the board have not yet held any conference on that question," said he, "as we meet Monday for that purpose; but from what little conversation I have had with Mr. Hawkins on the subject I am inclined to think that we will invite bids on 7,000 feet of hose. I am not prejudiced in favor of any particular kind of hose, and want plenty of competition. I am in for buying the best kind of hose as cheaply as While talking on the subject of fire equipment, yesterday, to a Journal reporter, City Controller Woollen said: "There has always been more or less of a wrangle when it became necessary for new hose to be purchased. I remember that the matter came up in the Conneil a year and a half ago. There was a demand for new hose, and a squabble occurred in the Council one night, when Gasper virtually accused Hicklin of having been bought. Hicklin demanded an investigation, and a committee, of which I was the chairman, was appointed. During that investigation I learned all I know about fire-A great deal of testimony was taken, and it came out that the Eureka hose was not the only hose that is made. It seemed that six years prior to that time new fire hose had been purchased of the Eureka company. Another company that was in the market, being unable to sell its hose to the city, presented the latter with a section with the request that it be used. The captain who had charge of that particular piece of hose testified that, in order to give it a thorough test, he had always attached it to the hydrant where the pressure was the greatest. This piece of hose was examined by the committee along with the Eureka, both of which had been in service six years (which is the average life of hose), and it was seen that the hose that had been rejected by the city had worn the best, and was in better condition than the

What Caused the Cave-In on Virginia Avenue -Resetting Sunken Curb.

City Engineer Mansfield said yesterday afternoon the damage done to the Virginia avenue pavement during the recent heavy rains was due to the bursting of a water main in the avenue near Dougherty street and was not caused by the settling or caving in of the sewer, as at first reported The water company, he said, at once turned off the water in that locality and yesterday had a force of men repairing the break. "To what do you attribute the recent breaking of water mains?" Mr. Mansfield

"It must be due to the fact that the pipes are weak," said he. "During the past year there have been four breaks in that same locality. A new stretch of pipe was put down where the break occurred near the viaduct the other day."

The other day it was discovered that the fountain was so constructed as to cause water to stand on the asphalt pavement, and they began to make complaints which elicited the fact that the wily Olaf had slily petitioned the Board of Public Works for the fountain; that it had been ordered and would cost the city just $250.

Preferred to Do It Himself. Major Hansen, of the Indianapolis Paying Company, yesterday called at the city engineer's office to ascertain if he could notify the property-owners himself when his company had completed its contract. He was told to lay the matter before the Board of Public Works. Major Hansen evidently thinks that the postal cards recent-ly sent out failed of their mission.

SPOILED A SENSATION.

Wild-Eyed Story of an Elopement Proves to I Nothing More than an Ordinary Wedding.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of yesterday contained a sensational dispatch from Crawfordsville, giving what purported to have been the elopement of Joe Hicks. "an Indianapolis barber," with Miss Nannie Goslin, daughter of "the wealthrest man in Brown's Valley," the couple, as alleged, being closely pursued by the irate father of the young lady, the old gentleman being armed with a double-barrel shotgun doubly shotted.

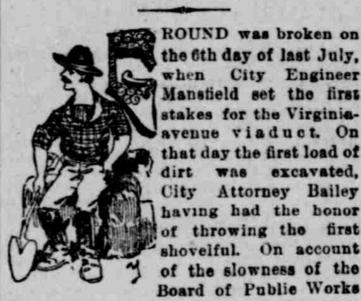

In the light of cold facts the story becomes at once divested of its sensational dress. Joseph Hicks, the bridegroom, for the past seven months has been employed at Edward L. Hunt's barber-shop on Washington street, near Mississippi. He was born and raised in Brown's Valley, where his parents, who are respectable, well-to-do people, now reside. His family have for years lived adjacent to the home of the Goslins, and the children of both families were school-mates and play-fellows. Joe Hicks and Miss Goslin long since entered into a marriage engagement, the same being opposed by the young lady's parents. On Monday evening last Miss Goslin came to Indianapolis, and, Tuesday evening, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hunt, 282 Blackford street, she and Mr. Hicks were quietly united in marriage. The young couple have since remained in this city. and the groom is pursuing his vocation at the Hunt establishment. He is much chagrined at the story sent out from Crawfordsville, and cannot account for it.

VIRGINIA-AVENUE VIADUCT.

How the Work le Progressing-Not Open to Travel Until Next Spring.

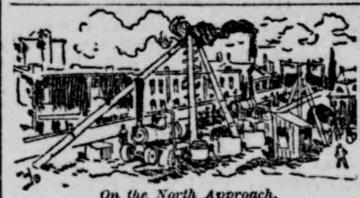

the 6th day of last July, when City Engineer Mansfield set the first stakes for the Virginiaavenue viaduct. On that day the first load of dirt was excavated, City Attorney Bailey having had the bonor of throwing the first shovelful. On account of the slowness of the Board of Public Works in awarding the benefits and damages, in the condemnation proceedings, the Union Railway Company was delayed sixty days, and as a consequence the structure will not be completed by Dec. 1, the date on which the contract expires.

In speaking of the work being done on the viaduct to a Journal reporter, yesterday afternoon, City Engineer Mansfield said: "The stone work has all been completed, except the coping. The iron work for the south approach is all strung, and the iron work for the north approach is completed, except the east roadway. The riveting and lining up of the bridge work is being done now, and the iron work will be completed in two weeks. By the time the company's contract expires the work on the structure will all be completed, except the tile-arch flooring for the road-

"When will that work be done?" Mr. Mansfield was asked. "Not until next spring," said he. "The cement used cannot be mixed in this kind of weather." "Then the viaduct will not be thrown open to travel until next spring?"
"No. We will plank the west side-walk for the use of pedestrians, but the roadway tiling can be laid." Mr. Mansfield was asked what he thought of the Virginia-avenue viaduct, as compared with others avenue viaduct, as compared with others in the country. Said he: "For strength and durability it will be equal to any in the United States, although it may not be as handsome a structure as some. One great advantage this viaduct has is the light grade—one foot to twenty-five. There is only one viaduct in Chicago that has as light a grade, and that is the one now being constructed there."

It is likely that the announcement that the viaduct will not be thrown open to travel this winter will cause considerable complaint from South-side citizens who have already been inconvenienced so much in getting to and from the business center. But yet the viaduct will lay over the same as the brick streets.

Emanuel Collins was arrested by patrolman Asch, yesterday, to answer a charge of assault and battery preferred by J. J. Christy, editor of the World, a local paper which circulates among the colored people. Collins, it will be recalled, was recently appointed to a position in the fire department, but his reputation as former proprietor of a negro dive on West Ohio street, in which a murder occurred, provoked so much criticism that the appointment was recalled. Editor Christy commented on Collins's character in a way that excited the latter's ire, and, meeting Christy on Washington street, Wednesday afternoon, demanded an explanation. Christy, it is said, told Collins he would talk with him later, and, as it turned out, the meeting occurred on the Vermont-street causl bridge. "I happened to meet him there," said Collins to a Journal reporter, last night, "and I wanted to know why he worked to beat me out of my job. He said if there was any blame to be attached to what he wrote, he would have to stand it. Well, I told him he could prepare himself to whip me or take a whipping right there. I guess I knocked him

Chance for Music in the Camp. The German-American Club is circulating a printed petition for signatures, asking the Board of Commissioners to reappoint William Yeager superintendent of the poor-farm. When shown yesterday to Commissioner Farrell, he said: "Oh, that's only a petition. Every body has a right to that, guaranteed all the way from the Declaration of Independence down to the State Constitution." If Yeager is not reappointed, there will be Wagnerian music in the camp.

The Jail Locks. The Board of County Commissioners returned yesterday from St. Louis, whither they went to inspect the Sparks locking device, for which the board, has contracted for the new county jail. The model examined by the board, with the descriptive efforts of Mr. Sparks, was found satisfactory, and the board will order it made a feature of the new jail. It enables the attendant, in case of emergency, to throw open every door in four seconds time.
